16-Oct-2017 02:08 | ScreenshotQ: How to get array-list of objects from raw type in java? I have a function that accepts a raw type. I have to convert it into a specific type inside the function. But I am unable to do so. Is there a way to get all the objects of a type without giving its parameter and then use `Object.cast()` to convert? Example

Object o1 = new Object(); Object o2 =
new Object(); Object o3 = new Object(); Object[] objectArray = new Object[3];
o1.setParameter1(objectArray);
o2.setParameter1(objectArray);
o3.setParameter1(objectArray); public
void myfunction(Object[] objectArray){
if(objectArray instanceof List){ List o =
(List)objectArray; List o1 =
(List)o1.getParameter1(); } } I would want to access my object by o. How can I access my object by o1? A: Your question is how to convert a raw type of List. Your function can simply take any List, like this:

public void myfunction(List objectArray){
if(objectArray instanceof List){ List o =
(List)objectArray; List o1 =
(List)o1.getParameter1(); } }

If you want to restrict the parameter to be List and not just the raw type, you can use Java 8:

public void myfunction(List objectArray){
if(objectArray instanceof List){ List o =
objectArray; List o1 = objectArray.get(0);
```

If you want to restrict the parameter to be List or any subclass, like ArrayList, you can use java.util.Arrays:

public void
myfunction(List objectArray){
if(objectArray instanceof List){ List o
