by that time, the translation was equipped with large images of different positions in sex, what was not presented in the original text. of course, it became a reason of the quickly growing popularity of the kamasutra. however, as a result the accents were moved, they led readers far from the main more valuable, important and deep part of the content of the kama sutra, making it out of attention. we say about the parts, which highlighted the relations between the man and the woman, the essence of their sexual intimacy, previous game, environment, and prelude everything, that turned mechanical sex into an act of love. instead of that, all the attention was concentrated on the positions which by themselves, without everything that was mentioned above meant little. in the kamasutra there is a chapter dedicated to the book of instructions on the art of love, which is called "the kama sutra". this is a large manual that takes into account all aspects of sex, from the most modest to the most refined, from the most practical to the most spiritual. the teachings are presented in different chapters, each of which is dedicated to one of the key features of the art of love and all of them are described with great detail. the main interest is in the chapter called "the kamasutra". the first part of the chapter takes up the general principles on which the art of love should be based, while the second part is devoted to the description of all the most pleasant sexual positions. there are also some suggestions on how to combine the art of love and yoga. in the third part there are the instructions for achieving orgasm, while the fourth part presents the principles on which a woman should behave during intercourse.

the trip was a failure, but richard burton still had a collection of exotic things. among them he had one book that he found in a library of the benares. this book was called the kamasutra. that is how the kamasutra came into the world. the original text was written in sanskrit, but it was translated into latin and then into english by richard burton. he published his findings in 1885, when the kamasutra was still unknown to the public. in the same year, burton also wrote about his life in india in a book called "the book of the thousand nights and a night", which was later translated into english as "the arabian nights". the name of the latter book is directly related to the story told in it. it is about a man from the arabian country who went to india and met the magician there, who gave him three wishes. the first wish was to get the book he wanted, the second one was to have a girl and the third one was to get rid of the magic spell of a black cat. the black cat carried a magic ring, and if it came near a girl's hand, the spell would be transferred to her. this is how the cat appeared in the beginning of the story. the man from the arabian country was very interested in the story about the book of the 1001 nights and wished to get it. finally, the magician told him where to find it. however, the task was not as simple as it seemed. the cat had to be taken away from the magician. the magician went to the man to ask him to give him a gift in return for the cat, but the man thought it's better to have the magic ring, as the cat had to be taken away anyway. therefore, the magician gave the man the ring instead of the cat. 5ec8ef588b
